Indonesia: President Sukarno's dissolution yesterday of the anti-Communist "Body for Propagating Sukarnoism" probably will encourage the Communists to press for new anti-American measures.

The

Communist Party had intensified its campaign for the disbandment of the "Sukarnoist" movement after the government last week summoned political leaders to "achieve national unity."

Sukarno's action against the anti-Communists is consistent with his recently renewed manifestation of hostility toward the West. Following the government-condoned demonstrations which damaged USIS installations in Djakarta and Surabaya early this month, authorities in Surabaya have ordered the USIS premises turned over to the government's National Front, which Communists dominate.

NOTES

British Guiana: Ex-premier Jagan's People's Progressive Party (PPP) reportedly plans to hold country-wide meetings on 20 December protesting the recent election, and subsequently to boycott the opening ceremonies of the new Parliament. The party's executive committee decided on these measures within the framework of a campaign of "non-violent noncooperation" against the new Burnham government. Burnham can be expected to try to restrain his supporters from retaliating, but the demonstrations could still lead to incidents of violence. Racial divisions have been solidified by the election and the PPP would not be averse to a fight.

Portugal: [Lisbon hopes to have eight of the 65 F-86s recently purchased from West Germany operating in Portuguese Guinea by early March, [] The first of these planes, to be flown to Portugal by West German pilots before Christmas, will be crated there and shipped to Africa. [] all of the US-supplied F-86s in Guinea, whose use there the US has protested, were to be back in Portugal by 17 December.]
